The allied commands also reported that the North Vietnamese offensive, now in its 22nd day, pushed Vietnamese casualties on both sides last week to their highest levels since the 1968 Tet offensive. The South Vietnamese command reported 1,002 of its troops and 7,117 enemy killed; the U.S. Command reported 12 American battlefield deaths for the second week in a row, the biggest total in six months.

The South Vietnamese command said that its paratroopers and rangers were locked in heavy fighting at Midday half a mile north and half a mile east of An Loc. Twenty U.S. B52s dropped 500 tons of explosives on three sides of the city, trying to break up the enemy concentrations besieging the city.

Field reports said North Vietnamese troops spearheaded by tanks renewed the attack from the north and from the south-

One battle 21/2 miles southeast of the city around a paratrooper position known as Hill 169 was described as "close combat," and casualties were believed to be heavy on both sides.

The ground attacks were preceded by a 1,600-round artillery barrage from dawn until dusk Wednesday, and the enemy bombardment was renewed today.

The Saigon command claimed about 150 enemy killed in and around An Loc Wednesday and today, many of them by air strikes. It said government casualties were light.

On the northern front, South Vietnamese forces claimed 142 North Vietnamese killed and two tanks knocked out in fighting near Dong Ha. 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone, and near Fire Base Bastogne, 12 miles southwest of Hue. Four South Vietnamese were reported killed and 35 wounded.

The U.S. Command reported that one American was killed and two wounded when two rockets hit a Navy salvage yard near the coastal city of Qui Nhon. Two other Americans were reported missing after their small observation helicopter was shot down in the central highlands.

The sudden emergence of the small North Vietnamese navy and the use of MIGs to attack 7th Fleet ships for the first time in the war posed a new challenge to the U.S. sea force supporting the South Vietnamese, Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, refused to bring to a vote two bills - one calling for state aid housing law and another to provide scholarships for i college students, whether enrolled in private or public institutions.

Sedalian Is Raped In Home Wednesday

BULLETIN

KNOB NOSTER — A spokesman for the police department here Thursday told The Democrat-Capital that Johnson County authorities are investigating a possible attempted rape here Wednesday night.

It was learned that a Knob Noster woman had been treated by a Whiteman AFB physician for scratches to her neck, throat and chest. It was not known at 1 p.m. whether the incident here was connected with the forcible rape of a Sedalia woman Wednesday afternoon. However, Pettis County sheriff's authorities are participating in the investigation, it was reported.

A 30-year-old Sedalia housewife was raped early Wednesday afternoon by a man who requested to use her telephone on the pretense of having car trouble, according to Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

The woman, who was not identified, apparently got off work about 2 p.m. and went shopping before her children returned from school. Fairfax told The Democrat-Capital.

Fairfax said the woman did not become concerned about the man, who continued to check his tires while she took about three bags of groceries into her home. Finally, however, the man approached the house, and asked to use the woman's telephone, saying he was experiencing car trouble. Fairfax said. The woman refused

According to Fairfax, the man threatened the woman with a gun and forced her to go to the bedroom, where he tied her wrists to the bedposts with a rope and raped her.

The woman suffered skin burns on both wrists, Fairfax said. She was examined by a Sedalia physician late Wednesday afternoon.

Fairfax, who said he arrived at the scene about 30 minutes after Sedalia police first received word of the incident, reported the

As the landing neared, Young expressed some concern about zipping up Duke's moon suit. He had trouble during a dress rehearsal Tuesday and asked Wednesday night if he could use pliers.

Mission Control objected and expressed the opinion that the problem was associated with weightlessness and would clear up in the one-sixth gravity on the moon.

The astronauts got a preview of what would be ahead when they passed over the landing site shortly after firing into lunar orbit Wednesday.

"The crater Descartes stands out much bigger than you'd expect," Duke reported. 'The area has a much blockier, jumbled appearance than in the photographs." "It's fantastic. Boy, is that rough,"

Geologists at Mission Control were heartened that the astronauts would find the volcanic evidence when Duke commented: "It looks very much like a big clinkery (cinder field) but on a much larger scale. Big rounded surface clinkers."

She Got Hooked On Nasal Sprays

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for the benefit of others who don't know they can get hooked on nose drops and nasal sprays.

It started when I was pregnant and having trouble breathing. The doctor suggested a nasal decongestant. He said the directions were on the bottle. To make a long story short, I got hooked. It became embarrassing - spraying all the time, leaving restaurant tables sometimes three or four times to go spray my nasal passages. If I ran out of decongestant I panicked - like an addict who needed a fix.

When I told my doctor I was afraid I was addicted he said, "The only way to get off is to quit using it." I tried, but my sinuses swelled up and my eyes became red and puffy. My throat was so sore I could arely swallow. I finally got off the stuff by medicating only one nostril and letting the other one heal. Then I suffered through, cold turkey, with the second

My sister who has never seen a fat day in her life has been wearing my size 8 clothes. When I catch her, the battles start. She has plenty of clothes and there is no good reason for her to be sneaking mine.

When I ask my mother to make her stop she says, "You are acting like a spoiled brat. Lose weight and wear them yourself, then your sister won't be tempted.

Is it fair? Am I behaving like a spoiled brat? Please give me some advice. — Plump But Not

I urge you to get a complete physical checkup. If there is no organic reason for your obesity, get on a doctor's diet and stay on it. I recommend counseling also. It sounds as if your unresolved emotional problems are compelling you to overeat.

Since the last Presidential election. American voters have become considerably less willing to describe their political philosophy as 'conservative.

In 1968, 37 per cent classified themselves that way. Today the number who report they are right-of-center has dropped to 29 per cent. A plurality of Americans, 35 per cent, now prefer to be characterized as 'middle-of-the-road.'

With this apparent shift of political gravity toward the center, President Nixon is now viewed as more conservative than the general public rates itself. On the other hand, two would-be Democratic opponents, Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Edmund Muskie, are seen as more liberal, or left-of-center, than the average American. Far outside the mainstream, Gov. ### No Anemia Link To Blood Pressure

Dear Dr. Lamb — My friend had pain in my right chest and and I have been arguing about side since I was 20. The pain anemia (low blood pressure). starts from the back and then She says that if it is not treated spreads. I have had tests for my right away you can die. I kidneys and I still think that is disagree. Can you please tell us what is the matter. My doctor the effect if you don't take care now thinks it is pleurisy but all of yourself. I have anemia. he does is give me penicillin shots and pills. I am married

Dear Reader — Anemia and low blood pressure are two different things. Anemia means inadequate number of red blood cells in the blood stream or insufficient iron in the red blood cells that are present. Low blood pressure means that the pressure of the blood in the arteries is on the low side. This is related to how much blood you have, how strongly the heart beats and how much resistance the arteries make to blood flow.

It is true that anemia can sometimes cause low blood pressure, but they are two different things. Low blood pressure by itself in a person who has no evidence of illness, such as heart disease, anemia or tuberculosis to name a few, is not serious.

What should be done about an anemia depends on how severe it is. Girls oft-times have mild anemias which are not necessarily life threatening, but they can contribute to fatigue. The only sure way is to know how severe the anemia is and for this you will have to rely on vour doctor. I would is highly unlikely that you are going to die real soon, and most forms of anemia can be treated if they are severe enough to require treatment.

Dear Dr. Lamb - I am almost 24 years old and have political philosophy can be found when voters are assessed by the key dimensions of age and party affiliation. Younger persons tend to be far more liberal and radical, while their elders are much more conservative. By the same token, Republican party members are more conservative, while Democrats and Independents are more liberal.

In every group, the middle-ofthe-roaders hold the balance of power between the liberals and radicals on one side and the conservatives on the other. Conservatism has made a relatively small dent among voters under 30. Much the same can be said about liberals among those 50 years of age and over. It is significant, moreover, that 11 per cent of the new voters in the 18-20-year-old category view themselves as radicals.

The most telling division, however, emerges when preferences for president this fall are analyzed according to the political philosophies of voters.

For example, President Nixon sweeps the conservative vote against both Humphrey and Wallace. Significantly. Wallace does not attain any higher level among conservatives than he does among the entire electorate -12 per cent.

Sen. Humphrey, as the Democratic standard-bearer. wins the liberal vote by almost as decisive a margin as Nixon carries the conservatives. Humphrey also takes the radical vote, but his chief rival among this small, extreme group is more Gov. Wallace than President Nixon.

The balance of power clearly rests with middle-of-the-road voters, the largest group today at 35 per cent. Among this moderate group, the President wins the day handily by a 52-36 per cent margin over Sen. Humphrey. Significantly, Wallace does poorest among this moderate segment of the electorate.

Talk that America has turned more conservative in recent years simply is not borne out by these results. By the same token, those who would claim an emerging liberal-radical majority have a long way to go before even approximating any dominance in American politics.

Shift For Convention Is Hinted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top Republicans say their plans to hold the 1972 GOP National Convention in San Diego are running into more money and more problems than they had anticipated and they may have to switch the meeting site to Miami Beach.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said in New Orleans Wednesday a decision will have to be made soon on whether to try to overcome the difficulties or change the site for the Aug. 21 convention. A party spokesman said a decision may be reached John N. Mitchell, President Nixon's campaign manager, was quoted by the Miami Herald as saying the Republicans have "a real problem in San Diego ... I'm not sure we can solve it.

R.L. Herman, vice chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for the party, said: "Our architects and contractors inform us that all of the modifications of the (San Diego Sports) Arena cannot be completed in time unless work can begin sooner than the arena owner presently will permit.'

But Peter Graham, owner of the arena. told the San Diego Union: "There's no way, in my mind, that the convention is going to leave San Diego ... Tomorrow or the next day we'll work it out."

"There's politics in this thing." Graham added. "I think they are digging at somebody. I don't understand why they are making me the bugaboo."

A source in Miami Beach agreed there was more to the problem than the arena and a reported shortage of hotel reservations in San Diego.

'They knew those things before they selected California," the source said. 'What they couldn't know about then was ITT and the bombing of Haiphong."

He said the controversy over International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.'s pledge to aid the convention if it were held in San Diego has put a stigma on the Southern California town. And President Nixon's decision to renew the bombing of North Vietnam, the source explained, would result in mass demonstrations that could be contained better in Miami Beach, which is linked to the mainland by a series of causeways and draw bridges

Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall, meanwhile, said the Republicans had contacted him to discuss his city as a possible convention site, and "Miami Beach is ready.'

Republican officials are meeting in Chicago this week to discuss the San Diego

PARIS (AP) - North Vietnam delivered formal notes to the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations today calling for a resumption of the Paris peace talks next Thursday.

A U.S. delegation spokesman said the American reply will be made known later. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Monday the United States is not prepared to resume peace negotiations while the Communist offensive continues in South Vietnam.

Malpractice Suit Filed By Parents After Surgery

A two-count, $55,000 malpractice suit was filed by the parents of a Lincoln girl in Pettis County Circuit Court Thursday against Dr. Ira M. White, D.O., 108 West

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Grandfield Lincoln, claim in the suit that their daughter Caron, as a patient of Dr. White, suffered unnecessary pain and a permanent hearing loss as a result of alleged negligence by Dr. White during his treatment.

They seek $50,000 in the first count of the suit which charges that a bilateral tympanotomy operation performed by Dr. White April 21, 1970, at Bothwell Hospital did not cure the girl's hearing difficulties. and that a bilateral adenoidectomy operation was not performed at the same time as Dr. White allegedly advised them it The Grandfields claim the infection caused by failure to remove the adenoids resulted in a progressive hearing loss for their daughter and that the bilateral tympanotomy operation was not necessary.

The second count of the suit seeks $5,000 to compensate for a loss in their daughter's earning capacity, and to cover for their time lost from employment while transporting their daughter from Lincoln to Sedalia for treatments.

Reward Offered For Conviction Of Litterbugs

Those who want to discourage littering in Pettis County and get a reward of $100 for it might want to start spying on litter bugs.

The judges of the County Court announced Thursday morning a $100 reward was being offered to anyone whose complaint of garbage dumping in unauthorized areas in the county will lead to the "arrest and conviction" of the persons responsible Presiding Judge B. A. Fischer explained that the existing $50 reward has been increased because "we've had so many complaints in recent weeks about dumping trash bags on farms along county roads. Several people have called his office and some have personally met with the county judges, he added.

He said Wednesday a Pettis County farmer told him of a letter he found in a garbage bag that was dumped on his farm. Fischer said he was not at liberty to disclose any names, but added that those who lodge complaints should try to have all possible evidence of who actually dumped the garbage.

Names of suspects should be taken to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, Fischer said.

Meany Attacks Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) - AFL-CIO President George Meany said today President Nixon has failed to control the economy fairly and effectively. He called on Congress to revamp wage-price policies and enact an excess-profits tax on business. Using such words and phrases as

"mess," "farce," "empty promises," "dismal record," "unjust," and "unbalances," Meany said the system is weighted against the American working man with rising prices, rising profits and depressed Meany, who led the walkoff of organized labor from the Pay Board, accused ranking administration officials of distorting statistics to support an optimism he said was in no way justified.

In testimony prepared for the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Meany said Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, gave an "utterly distorted" description of wage trends in his appearance before the committee last

"The record is sharply different from Dr. Stein's scare story of a 9.3-per-cent yearly rate of wage increases," Meany said. "It shows that wages are under strict control."

Meany said that after a one-month bulge at the end of the wage-price freeze, wages have stayed within the Pay Board's 5.5-percent control standard. In testimony Wednesday, Pay Board Chairman George Boldt said that the weighted average of cases shows a settlement rate of 4.3 per cent. Meany said Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson presented the committee with "reams of statistics designed to show that price controls are working.' Said Meany: "He forgot the most important statistic—the price tag.

Dalton Gang Raid Is History in Coffeyville

By DAVID DARY School of Journalism University of Kansas

COFFEYVILLE, Kan. (AP) On the morning of October 5. 1892, five armed horsemen rode into Coffeyville, Kas. They constituted the Dalton gang, and they were riding into their home town. Within 12 minutes they had robbed two banks of nearly $25,000 and were engaged in a shoot-out.

Today the Dalton raid is history. No one is alive who took part in it, or in the defense of the town. But the memories of that day are still alive in Cof-feyville. Two blocks north of the junction of highways 166 and 169 is a monument erected in 1949 to the memory of the four men who died fighting the outlaws. It stands on the plaza in the center of Coffeyville's business

Half a block to the east is the Dalton Museum. It. too. is dedicated to the four citizens who died.

Asked how the museum was started. Charles Clough re-called that while he was in service in World War II, "every time I mentioned I was from Coffeyville, Kas., someone would say, isn't that where the Dalton gang was captured?"

After the war, when Clough came back to Coffevville, he and others founded the museum. Opening day was October 5, 1954, exactly 62 years after the Dalton raid. It was called the Dalton Defenders 'Historical Museum and was located on the second floor of the

In June, it was relocated onehalf block east of Eighth Street. Today it is estimated that 50.-000 persons visit the museum each vear.

The museum reflects the action in downtown Coffevville the morning of October 5, 1892. It was a bright and clear morning as the outlaws - Grat, Bob and Emmett Dalton, Bill Powers and Dick Broadwell - rode into town, hitched their horses to a fence in an alley near the plaza and split up.

Three of the outlaws - Grat Dalton, Dick Broadwell and Bill Bowers robbed the Condon Bank while Bob and Emmett Dalton held-up the First National bank. Both banks were on the plaza.

But before they could escape four of the five outlaws were killed. Four townsmen men died in the shoot-out.

All but about $22 of the robbery money was recovered.

Emmett Dalton, just over 21 years old, recovered from his wounds to stand trial. He was

CONCORDIA - The students of the Concordia High School, under the direction of Dale Pollard, Ron Stratton and Tom Dodson, are presenting an allschool musical at 8 p.m. Friday and 2 p.m. Sunday entitled Calamity Jane. Calamity is portrayed by Pat Deatherage, who dresses, rides. shoots like a man and lives up to her name by getting into one dilemma after another. Being very independent, she refuses the help of anyone, particularly men, until some feminine competition comes along in the form of Katie Brown, played by Kathy Richardson. Only then does she realize that Lt. Danny Gilmartin, portrayed by Paul Tebbenkamp, is really a pretty swell guy. Unfortunately, her stage-riding reputation has ruined her chance for romance, and she suffers several hilarious setbacks before finally capturing the heart of a man. The man, however, turns out to be her once-sworn enemy. Wild Bill Hickok, played by Joel Iserman.

The score includes such familar songs as "Secret Love," "Windy City," and "I Can Do

Store in Plastic For No Yellowing

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - Like L. W. my quilts had yellow age spots caused by long storage. The best remedy I found was to wash them in hot suds (a LITTLE bleach may be added) and dry them outdoors in plenty of sun and air. - MRS. C. I.

DEAR POLLY — I have had good results removing vellow spots from quilts by dipping a sponge or rag in a bleach solution, rubbing this over the spots and then sponging it off with clear water. - ZOE

DEAR POLLY - Mine is a suggestion to L.W. for the prevention of yellow spots on her quilts that have been stored. My laundryman told me that one should never store things such as quilts without first wrapping in tissue or a plastic wrap. Blue tissue paper keeps white articles from yellowing while they are stored. - MRS. G. D. S.

DEAR GIRLS — Do remember that removing spots from old articles is chancy business so do not be disappointed at the results. If they have been stored for years the fabric may be in an almost rotting or very weakened condition so holes may appear after the use of any strong remedy like bleach. Some quilts are made from scraps of different fabrics and in different colors so that one part may take to a treatment that another cannot. Some of the new detergents that contain bleaching agents may bring out the desired brightness. Any solution must be faced with a degree of uncertainty due to varying circumstances. Try at least a corner first. - POLLY Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY - How can I clean my electric fry pan that has turned very dark? Also, would anyone have any suggestions for the proper soil to put around African violets? Mine seem to be lacking in something but I do not know what. I have tried so many things but every so often a plant dies. Any suggestions? Why do they grow in a gooseneck shape? - MILDRED

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those people who use the city streets as garbage dumps. Those litterers, young and old alike, unfortunately, seem to have a head start on those who are interested in cleaning up. — JULIA

TENDRILS TRICK

Wispy tendrils are very feminine and romantic-looking. Unfortunately, with fine hair they're somewhat hard to set. If you have this problem, simply roll a quilted cosmetic pad into a little bolster and wind the tendril around it. Hold the pad in place with tape or hair clip. A great trick, especially for revitalizing hair that has wilted from the weather or strenuous activity.

UFOs Topic For Talk At Meeting

Ted Phillips, midwest director and field representative for the Midwest UFO Network, presented a talk and slide presentation about unidentified flying objects at Wednesday's Lion Club meeting at Bothwell Hotel.

Phillips said there have been over 100,000 sightings reported. but added less than one per cent have been investigated. When he is not working for the Missouri State Highway Department, Phillips investigates sightings in this part of the country, he said.

He noted sightings of shining metal discs in the sky have been reported since 1133. In 1948 U.S. and Canadian radar systems reported tracking a UFO at 60,000 feet, traveling at 9,000 miles per hour, he added.

Phillips mainly investigated reported UFO landings, he explained. As an example, he told how a Kansas farm youth saw a disc land, ran and told his parents who came out and saw the object take off. Investigation revealed there was a patch about 30 feet in diameter burned where the disc reportedly touched down. Phillips said samples of the soil are being tested and indicated water will not penetrate the soil, but beads up instead.

Phillips said he and two organizations of which he is a member hope that scientific investigation will provide answers to the questions UFOs present.

Jim Holman introduced the speaker.

Wilbur McVey, Lions Deputy District Governor, awarded John Mais a plaque for Membership Development for his work while he was Lion Zone Chairman in 1970-71.

Alternatives Exist To Paying Your Taxes

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - It is too late now to do much about last year's taxes, but if you were to plan your affairs so as to reduce next year's payment you might consider marriage, having children, going into debt. buying rental property.

You might also consider purchasing municipal bonds, investing in cattle-feeding, plunging into oil exploration or risking your money on stocks in search of capital gains.

In any of these decisions you wouldn't be alone. You would instead be in partnership with the tax collector, Uncle Sam himself, who feels that for social and economic reasons you should receive special handling.

You can't easily explain the subtle shift in the role of taxes from that of financing govern-ment to that of social change, but it has taken place. Through the lure of tax breaks, government directs millions of personal and business decisions.

The married couple generally make out better than the single person. And the creation of children, which places more demands on social institutions, results in deductions.

The person who runs up debts can deduct the interest paid on them. The owner of rental property can obtain quick depreciation deductions and then resell to another owner, who can begin the process all over on long-term profits from the sale of capital assets, such as stock or property, in order to encourage investments.

The ordinary individual who lives an uncomplicated life generally cannot expect to benefit from these tax shelters or exceptions or incentives or whatever they might be called. Usually it takes money to save on

The assumptions on which tax privileges are based has disturbed Congress for years and may eventually lead to an overall examination. But that still leaves another problem area: subjectivity of application.

So complex have the laws become, and so open to interpretation, that the same question put to several different Internal Revenue Service offices is likely to elicit as many different answers.

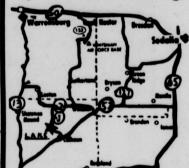

To simplify the tax law so that everyone pays a percentage of income, no matter The capital gains tax limits how earned, wouldn't be the anto 25 per cent the tax obligation swer. That would tax the poor unjustly, reducing usable income in some instances to the poverty level.

There are no easy ways of simplifying the situation. But there is one simple question that deserves a clear answer:

Are taxes a means of financing government or a system of rewards and penalties to bring about social change?

Golden Anniversary Salute to Kiwanis

The Sedalia Kiwanis Club is in the middle of Kiwanis Week, which will be climaxed Saturday with a Golden Anniversary Banquet.

There is always the danger that we will take our service clubs-of which Kiwanis is one of the largest—for granted. But the many civic activities in which Kiwanis is and has been involved, as described elsewhere in today's paper, should remind us otherwise.

In the course of its 50-year history in Sedalia, the local Kiwanis Club has undertaken a multitude of community-building activities, many on a continuing basis.

Assistance to youth is just one area in which Kiwanians have long been deeply involved. From Little League, to Girl's State, to the American Field Service, debate tournaments and scholarships -just to mention a few-Sedalia

Kiwanians are quietly going about the business of helping young people to expand their horizons and realize their full potentials.

In youth work and a host of other areas, the Kiwanis Club has helped to make Sedalia a better town to live in. It would have been a lot tougher without them.

Some would say today that the service club as we have known it over the years has outlived its usefulness, that its contributions have slackened off, leaving other agencies better prepared to take on the job of helping others.

The half-century of service accomplished by Sedalia's Kiwanians, which continues today, is a strong refutation of this belief.

We salute our local Kiwanis Club on its golden anniversary, and wish it another 50 years of service to this community.

Secret intelligence reports suggest that Hanoi expected the anti-war pressures in the United States to keep American air-sea power at bay after the assault across the demilitarized zone. But Hanoi underestimated Richard Nixon, who never hesitated to strike massive air blows against North Vietnam.

Earlier, he had made secret overtures through both Moscow and Peking to bring pressure on the North Vietnamese to call off the offensive. Chinese Premier Chou En-lai reportedly tried to persuade the North Vietnamese not to risk a military showdown, but they went ahead with the offensive in spite of the advice from

The Russians, on the other hand, refused to discourage the attack. Intelligence reports claim that the Kremlin, while it didn't go so far as to encourage Hanoi to invade South Vietnam, had advance knowledge of the invasion plans. The attackers also used Soviet-made tanks. artillery and anti-aircraft missiles

The President believes the Kremlin could have prevented the invasion by threatening to cut off military supplies. He intends to demonstrate his resolve, therefore, by shutting off the supplies himself, if possible, with a blizzard of

The Central Intelligence Agency has warned all along that bombing will never stop the needed supplies from reaching Communist forces in South Vietnam. Gen. Creighton Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, has agreed that the supplies for the present offensive were stockpiled in

But he has warned that Hanoi has the power to continue a prolonged offensive. Twelve of North Vietnam's regular divisions are now fighting in the south. Another division is reported on the way to the front. This leaves only two training divisions at home.

Once the lines become stabilized. Abrams has suggested, the Vietnam war may become a protracted. Korea-style conflict. He recommended the bombing of supply depots around Hanoi and Haiphong, therefore, to disrupt enemy logistics and to reduce the supplies that will reach frontline troops in the months ahead. When President Nixon first took over as

This assessment has now been changed, but the Joint Chiefs have warned it will take massive American air support to blunt the North Vietnamese offensive.

In private, meanwhile, the President has repeated again and again that he doesn't intend to be "pushed around" - not in Vietnam, the Middle East nor anywhere

Once, when Jewish leaders were questioning his willingness to support Israel, Nixon asked an aide incredulously: "Can these people really believe that I could sit in this chair and let anything happen to Israel?"

CHICAGO - Nearly 200 American writers and teachers, all of them identified with the conservative cause, gathered here in Chicago the other night to honor a benefactor and to renew old bonds.

Liberals, of course, have such occasions also; they are indispensable to the keeping of any faith; and they remind us anew of the importance of ritual in the survival of

Henry, at 35, plunged into the perilous waters of the book publishing business. He

Our own modest consistory was summoned to pay homage to Henry

Regnery, founder and now chairman of the board of the publishing house that bears his name. Henry is a diminfully. The act of writing, in itself, is among the most agonizing occupations ever contrived by man; but to write futilely to write and not get published — is to know the tortures of the damned. It is like the tree that falls in the desert: Does anyone hear? Without a publisher, a writer is an unstrung fiddle; other instruments are playing. He is mute. Henry Regnery made it his mission to string us up. He challenged the orchestrated liberalism of the whole book publishing world — not merely the house themselves, but also the book reviewers, the periodicals, the critics who can make or break a title in the market. Then, as now, the media were dominated by intellectuals hostile to conservative thought. Henry took on the whole crew.

Thus, when it was highly fashionable to praise the Chinese Communists, those agrarian reformers, he published Freda Utley's "The China Story," one of the most powerful anti-Communist works of our time. When progressive education was all the rage, he sought out Mortimer Smith, and thereby introduced in the groves of academe a cool voice of common sense. He breached the very citadels of the Eastern Establishment with Bill Buckley's "God and Man at Yale." In 1957, when liberals ruled the Southern roost, he sought a conservative in Richmond and let the young cock crow.

Most significantly, he discovered in Mecosta, Mich., up in the burnt-woods country, a ruddy little Scot whose pedantic image concealed a quick and lively passion. This was Russell Kirk, teacher and philosopher. His seminal work, "The Conservative Mind," remains after nearly 20 years the one best starting point for an understanding of contemporary conservative thought.

What did Henry glean from his labors? Personal satisfaction, little more. Relatively speaking, he rarely made a dime. In the whole of the 25 years, only a handful of his titles, by the most generous accounting, ever ranked as best-sellers. But he had a wonderful time.

So the clan gathered to pay him honor, and as such ritual proceedings go, this one went very nicely. The preliminary speakers rambled on too long, but Bill Buckley, as principal orator of the evening, was exactly right. He recalled Whittaker Chambers' vivid description of the typical tiny shop on a side street of a great city. Here no customer is ever seen. A curious visitor, wondering what the shop conceals, finds at a dimly lit desk in the rear an old man who lovingly offers a few bolts of hand-crafted cloth - fabric not meant to sell, but merely to endure. So, too, with Henry, keeper of the conservative store.

Every faith must have its Henry. The liberals have theirs, and I would pay them homage also. Someone has to keep the tablets, if only to preserve the possibility of enduring truth against the casual destruction of the passing hour.

Pat McGeehan, Jefferson City's senior distance standout and holder of the Jennie Jaynes Stadium record at 9:54.0, should receive stiff competition from Smith-Cotton freshman Steve Fisher, along with Tipton's Mark Klass and S-C's David Moore.

Fisher holds the Tigers' record with a time of 9:55.5, set in the same race that McGeehan shattered the old stadium record.

However, Klass has a clocking of 9:54.6, with Moore's best clocking at 10:03.5.

Tom Bloess, who York likes to call "old reliable," will be entered in the 120-yard high hurdles, and the 180-yard low hurdle events. His clocking :21.0 in the lows is the best in the area, while his :15.9 in the highs is only three-tenths of a second off the best in that event.

His favorite hand was one that got his team into the finals of the 1948 Vanderbilt Cup.

East's one no-trump overcall was one of those psychies that work on occasion. This time it boomeranged, since Amby worked his way to seven spades. Amby might have bid seven anyway, but at the other table South stopped at six when East kept quiet.

Impostor Serves as Administrator

CANTON, Ohio (AP) - Authorities said Wednesday that an imposter calling himself Dr. Edward Bradley drew more than $2,000 in salary in three weeks he served as administrator and medical director at the 200-bed Molly Stark Hospital near here.

An investigation showed that the same man may have served for one and one-half years as assistant administrator at Saginaw, Mich., Community Hospital, and from Nov. 20, 1971 to July, 1971 as administrator at Monroe, Mich. Mercy Hospital.

A John Doe warrant listing aliases of Wayne Farmer and Edward Bradley was issued by Stark County officials on charges of larceny by trick.

The search for the impostor was being focused in the Independence and Kansas City, Mo., and Detroit areas.

Stark County prosecutor David Dowd said the man had claimed to own nursing homes in Kansas City and Detroit. He said the license plates on the imposter's car was registered to an Elvera Farmer of Independence, Mo.

Dowd said he believes Farmer is also a phony name.

The self-styled Dr. Bradley reorganized the staff of 225 and suspended several employes between March 27 when he began and Tuesday when he hastily Dowd said a check of Brad-

At a luncheon today the editors were to hear three Democratic candidates for president, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, campaigning in Pennsylvania, canceled his appearance.

Kevin Maroney, a deputy attorney general in the Justice Department's internal-security division, told a panel on press rights and responsibility that editors should check whether a document has been properly classified before deciding whether to publish it.

An alternative, he said, is for newspapers to print whatever information comes into their possession-thus assigning editors the question of security.

"One must ask," Maroney said, "on what basis do they arrogate to themselves the right to make such a serious determination. For although the members of the press are particularly well informed, they do not and cannot have access to all the facts ... whether a particular document or piece of information, which has been classified, should be published.'

Anderson, whose recent publication of papers attributed to International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and of secret White House discussions of relations with India and Pakistan focused attention on the issue, said the government practices censorship-by-classifying.

"The editors of this country have demonstrated their patriotism and love of country just as often as the people in the internal-security division," he said.

Anderson said he is told by numerous government sources that 95 to 98 per cent of material that is classified should not be. "This is not national security," he said. "This is political security.

Another member of the panel, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said the overriding question is "this nation's commitment to a press free from government control."

"There can certainly be no greater danger to our heritage of freedom than an erosion of freedom of speech and freedom of press," said Ervin, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights. "Indirect assaults by government, through subtle harassment and intimidation or from increased regulation, can chill these freedoms and put them into cold storage just as effectively as direct assaults.

Reveals Opposition Over Russian Credit

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, although optimistic for a Soviet grain deal later on, served notice Wednesday he does not favor "soft" credit to help feed Russian livestock.

Butz, who opened grain discussions with Moscow earlier this month, told a news conference he thinks the Soviet Union needs to warm up politically with the United States.

Soviet leaders have shown an interest in U.S. feed grains and soybeans because of rising consumer demand for more meat, milk and eggs. But they want "concessional" low-cost credit extending as much as 10 years.

viet Union next month. "We know they're going to buy grain somewhere in the world," Butz said, "and we know we've got it. We think we're sitting in the driver's seat.

Butz was asked if the recent U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong would hurt chances of a grain sale. He said he could not give a simple yes or no. "This grain is part of a larger package that we're developing with the Soviet Union,' he said. "It's my opinion that before we have any substantial grain sale with them, there's got to be some evidence of a thawing of political relationships that currently exist."

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) - A spokesman in the Jackson County prosecutor's office says a preliminary look at a 1,200page report on the Independence police department shows no indication of law violations.

However James Shockey, assistant prosecutor, said Wednesday there are some examples of poor judgment relating to confiscated items.

The report was turned over to the prosecutor's office by the city council earlier this week Paul L. Roberts, a councilman whose term ended Monday, said it showed money, narcotics, guns and other recovered or department property were

From last August until the moratorium, the state had posted 112 bridges on primary routes in Kansas. An additional 656 bridges were posted by the first of this year by county highway departments, applying the same regulations on secondary road bridges.

A total of 105 bridges were posted in Sedgwick County, 92 in Saline and 18 each in Shawnee and Bourbon counties to lead the list.

The State Highway Department received about a dozen complaints from around the state to the stricter load limits. and U.S. Rep. Joe Skubitz brought the matter to a head with a news release to media in his 5th District of southeast

The 1970 act and resulting bridge load limit regulations set forth by the Federal Highway Administration were triggered by the collapse a few years ago of a bridge over the Ohio River between Ohio and West Virginia in which 46 persons lost their lives.

The federal government required the states to put their engineers to checking all bridges to determine which ones should have a lower load limit applied to them because they are potentially unsafe to carry a heavier weight.

Peyton said all Kansas wants to know is whether it is applying the federal regulations correctly, which state officials believe it is.

'We want to know if we're doing it wrong," he said. "If we're off base in any way, we want to know about it.

'To the best of our knowledge, we're doing it exactly the way the federal people have written the regulations.

He said counties "are under the same obligation" as the states as far as applying the new federal bridge regulations is concerned. He said the state highway department held seminars to instruct county engineers in how to apply the same interpretation of the regulations as the state was applying.

A problem, Peyton said, is the fact that Congress hasn't supplied the necessary funds "to get all the fixing done which people want done.'

Kansas has launched a repair program to rebuild the posted bridges so they can be restored to full traffic. But it is a slow process, because of limited funds and because there are so many bridges which need upgrading.

Morrissey said he is "in agreement with what the state has done," and said the application of the federal regulations was worked out between state and federal engineers.

Arbor Day Became Official in Nebraska's Sand Hills — Unofficially

By ED HOWARD Associated Press Writer

Nebraska is the land of the Sand Hills.

It lies in that part of the United States which geographers once referred to as the Great American Desert.

A very special chapter in American history began in the Sand Hills in 1872. That's when Arbor Day became official, in an unofficial way.

Residents of the area take pride in the knowledge that that chapter is still being written here, and that nearly every other part of the country has come to share in the unofficial Arbor Day.

Centennial, April 21-23, in Nebraska City. The festivities and ceremonies will center on Arbor Lodge, where Arbor Day founder J. Sterling Morton made his home.

Day is a last vestige of the pioneer spirit. And were it not for pioneers, like Morton, the Great American Desert might still exist. Morton, a Nebraska pioneer.

who went on to become secretary of agriculture, was a nature lover, a journalist and a philosopher.

When he first began espous-pected to attend the Arbor Day the cause of ecology in its earliest stages, there was a lot more to it than just a love of trees and shrubs.

As Morton saw it, if Nebraska was to be farmed and settled, it would have to improve In its centennial year. Arbor on its less-than-abundant natural resources. In short, people had to plant trees. Trees for wind breaks as protection against the Great Plains northern wind storms. Trees for fuel, lumber and shade. That was in the late 1840s. when Morton edited the state's

Up to 50,000 persons are ex- ing what might be looked on as school children, civic groups, veterans associations and private citizens setting aside one day that was and still is, dedicated to nature. They planted trees, bushes, flowers, shrubs. Congress has never recognized Arbor Day "officially" as a holiday. But somehow, largely through Morton's work, the idea spread. In a few years. school children around the country were planting trees on Arbor Day, a day that was hardly mentioned in their history books.

The idea that was born in the Great American Desert also found its way overseas. Variations of it still exist in Eng-

British West Indies, South Africa. France, Mexico. Russia. Japan and China.

How does a holiday that isn't even official find its way into the American heritage? The answer might lie in Morton's unique philosophy that he expressed in these words:

"Other holidays repose upon the past. Arbor Day proposes for the future."

Currently, all states except Alaska observe Arbor Day, or Tree Planting Day, but nowhere is it celebrated with greater dedication than Nebraska. Records show that in the first 16 years after Arbor Day

Among the new trees, flowers, bushes and shrubs to be planted, will be the new state tree, a cottonwood.

Mid-America remain ardent. The reason might lie in another line written by Morton. In a speech in Washington in 1894. while secretary of agriculture.

Organization of Kiwanis: From Club to International

The Sedalia Kiwanis Club was organized only seven years after the first Kiwanis chapter was founded in Detroit in 1915. Since then Kiwanis International has grown to include thousands of chapters in the United States and 39 foreign countries.

Kiwanis took its name from the language of the Indians around Detroit. The original term was "Nun Keewanis." which was shortened to its present form, which means, roughly. "self-expression."

The stated purpose of Kiwanis is. "Service to Youth, Community and Nation." The club's motto is, "We

6. To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism, which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism, and good will.

Kiwanis Clubs in the United States are banded into geographical groups called districts, which are further divided into divisions. There are 30 Kiwanis districts in the nation, each of which is administered by a governor. The divisions are administered by lieutenant governors.

Strictly a U.S.-Canadian operation until 1962, in that year Kiwanis went international. In 1966 Kiwanis Internation-Europe moved into new headquarters in Zurich. Switzerland.

The Sedalia Kiwanis Club was organized March 5, 1922. It held its first meeting March 11, and was presented its charter at a banquet April 20 in Convention Hall.

W. F. Keyser was the club's first president, and was toastmaster at the Charter Night banquet. Other officers were: A. M. Embry, vice president; J. E. Hurley, secretary: C. C. Evans, treasurer; and Paul Barnett, district trustee.

Other charter directors were E. J. Burger, Grant Crawford, D. P. Dyer, C. G. Fox, Walter Lierman, Lee Montgomery and George H. Scruton, Sr.

Today the Sedalia Kiwanis Club is still continuing this tradition of service. Sizeable financial support goes to such activities as Little League, Boys and Girls Khoury League, the American Field Service, MU Extension, the Sedalia Symphony Society, Girl's State, 4-H Livestock Show, Missouri Special Olympics, and many other activities.

The club also strongly supports the Children's Therapy Center, and donates two full-year scholarships at State Fair Community College. Sedalia Kiwanians have donated $1,500 toward constructing a new lodge at the Girl Scouts camp.

One of the most notable activities of the Sedalia Kiwanis Club is its sponsorship of the annual Smith-Cotton Speech and Debate Tournament. The club provides all of the trophies for the debate tournament, as well as individual members to serve as judges. The tournament is considered to be one of the finest held in the Midwest.

A large part of Kiwanis' civic activities are paid for from funds collected at the club's annual Pancake Day.

Club Organization Is on a District, Divisional Basis

Kiwanis clubs are banded into geographical groupings called districts. There are 30 Kiwanis districts in the United States and Canada. Each of these, in turn, is subdivided into smaller geographical units called divisions. An annually-elected governor heads each district. An annually-elected lieutenant governor heads each division.

In addition, each district has a secretary and treasurer. In many cases, secretaries maintain permanent district headquarters offices. Each governor appoints committees roughly parallel with those of the clubs. Each district publishes a monthly or bi-monthly

Kiwanis Growth In Pacific Area Seen By Bartlett

On his return from an eventful four-week tour of eight Kiwanis nations in the South Pacific and Far East, International President Wes H. Bartlett expressed his pleasure with the growth of Kiwanis involvement in the area.

"Each international president who has visited the Pacific area has returned home impressed and optimistic about future growth. Now Mary and I have viewed the scene for ourselves, and we too can report that Kiwanis has a bright future in the Pacific because so many fine community leaders have blazed a trail of service and selflessness," Bartlett said.

During the trip, which took the president and first lady of Kiwanis to New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Singapore, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Korea, and Japan, President Bartlett chartered three new Kiwanis clubs, attended the Third Annual Australia Provisional District Convention, and met with the special Japan Kiwanis Council.

Leadership Is A Big Part.

Kiwanis leaders are made — not born, the club believes. They receive training from the time they become club presidents to the time they are ready for the International president's gavel.

The training program, unique with Kiwanis among service organizations, starts in late October each year with the International Council meeting, a four-day orientation session in which governors-designate and new district secretaries are "students," and International Board members, International committee chairmen, and past International presidents are "instructors." At Council meetings, governors-designate and secretaries receive information and advice on administration community service matters.

The governors, upon returning to their home districts, hold training conferences for the benefit of lieutenant governors (who head the divisions into which districts are subdivided) and district committee chairmen. Lieutenant governors in turn hold training sessions for club presidents. At the final echelon club presidents conduct planning conferences for club officers, directors, and committee chairmen.

Kiwanis "training" is designed to point out to Kiwanians what can be done and how to do it more effectively, so that more sick children can be helped, more trees planted, and more senior citizens taken to church. The leadership training program of Kiwanis has been a continual source of strength to the organization.

Chapters Are Set Up New Club Committee

The establishment of new Kiwanis clubs is handled on a planned, orderly basis through the New Club Building committees of existing clubs. The methods used are the result of careful study and more than half a century of experience.

Organizing new clubs combines the volunteer efforts of Kiwanians from sponsoring clubs with the assistance of trained field service representatives. Kiwanis employs no organizers.

CONGRATULATIONS to the SEDALIA KIWANIS CLUB ON THEIR 50th ANNIVERSARY

We want to join with the Sedalia Kiwanis Club in commemorating their 50th Anniversary, as we express our thanks for their many services to this community.

Scene at Convention

This was an overall view of the 56th annual convention of Kiwanis International, held in San Francisco. Some 16,000 persons attended the convention, at which a host of resolutions and objectives were passed and other business transacted. Dr. Billy Graham was the featured speaker at the four-day affair. (Kiwanis Magazine Photo)

Major Emphasis Program For Kiwanis Has Two Objectives

The highlight of the closing session of the Kiwanis 56th annual convention in San Francisco last June was the unveiling of the 1971-72 Kiwanis International Major Emphasis Program, "Unite for Progress in Operation Drug Alert and Project Environment."

The focus of the program will be upon cooperative service projects involving youth, young adults, and adults, especially Kiwanians, Key Clubbers, and Circle K men.

"Unite for Progress in Operation Drug Alert and Project Environment" has three main objectives:

The maximizing of achievement through service projects selected, planned, and implemented by Kiwanians, youth, and young adults working together in any committee area or areas.

The extension and enrichment of the Operation Drug Alert program.

The strengthening and structuring of efforts to protect our natural resources and improve the quality of our environment through Project Environment.

Delegates also adopted three resolutions specifically supporting the Major Emphasis Program and indicating its special focus for the administrative year.

The approved resolution on Operation Drug Alert urged that special attention be given "to the education of parents. to the provision of qualified counseling to all who need and desire it, to the support of professionally directed programs of rehabilitation, and to the continuance and permanency of drug education programs for all children and youth."

The resolution on Project Environment directed that emphasis be given in 1971-72 to "the application of club resources to locally identified environmental concerns" and that Kiwanis clubs "serve as catalysts for uniting adults and youth in a total commitment to improving the quality of our environment."

The resolution "Unity With Youth" called for the creation of "opportunities for Kiwanis clubs. Circle K clubs. Key clubs, and other youth organizations to work together in community survey.

project selection, project planning, and project implementation."

Lending added support to the Major Emphasis effort are the 1971-72 Themes of Key Club International — "Enrich Man's Existence" — and Circle K International — "Involve Youth." Both programs contain similar emphasis on drug and environmental issues.

But while joint Kiwanis-youth projects in the areas of Operation Drug Alert and Project Environment are especially urged. Kiwanis-youth projects in any area of youth or citizenship services or sole Kiwanis participation in Operation Drug Alert or Project Environment will constitute participation in the 1971-72 Major Emphasis Program.

Volunteer Effort Is Biggest Part

Kiwanis International is a men's service organization whose stated purpose. "Service to Youth. Community, and Nation," is an apt description of the work its members undertake. They are business and professional men who voluntarily share in the burden of community leadership. Kiwanis is a phenomenon of the twentieth century. Its members are motivated by a common desire to serve, plus a desire for fellowship.

Kiwanis serves in the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Far East, the Caribbean Area, and Western Europe. By far the greatest number of its clubs are in the United States and Canada, the countries of its origin, where it served exclusively until 1962.

Kiwanis Governors

Gov. Daniel M. Carr Jr., left, of Kansas City, heads the Missouri-Arkansas district of Kiwanis International. Lt. Gov. Charles "Chuck" Burgess, Warrensburg, is in charge of the 11th Division of Missouri, which includes eight other clubs in addition to the Sedalia Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanis World-Wide Network For Service

Kiwanis clubs are banded into geographical groupings called districts. There are 30 Kiwanis districts in the United States and Canada. Each of these, in turn, is subdivided into smaller geographical units called divisions.

An annually-elected governor heads each district. An annually-elected lieutenant governor heads each division. In addition, each district has a secretary and treasurer. In many cases, secretaries maintain permanent district headquarter offices. Each governor appoints committees roughly parallel with those of the clubs. Each district publishes a monthly or bi-monthly bulletin.

Kiwanis International consists of all Kiwanis clubs. It is not a separate organization. It is headed by an annually-elected president. A president-elect, two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and six trustees are also elected annually.

There is a total of 12 trustees; each serves a two-year term. These officers, plus the immediate past International president, form the board of trustees of Kiwanis International. Serving with them is the international secretary and associate secretary who are appointed each year by the board itself.

Two Scholarships At State Fair College Created

The Sedalia Kiwanis Club board of directors recently voted to sponsor two full-year scholarships at State Fair Community College. The scholarships will pay full tuition and fees.

"We can think of no better organization to invest in than State Fair College," said club President Jim Woods.

The scholarships may be awarded to either Pettis or Benton County students. Recipients of the awards will be selected by the college's scholarship committee.

Best Wishes From Bartlett To Sedalians

The following letter was sent to Jim Woods, president of the Sedalia Kiwanis Club, by Wes H. Bartlett, Kiwanis International president.

March 11, 1922, was the date the Sedalia club was chartered. It was presented to the club on April 20.)

"Dear Jim:

"March 11 is a banner day for the Kiwanis Club of Sedalia, and I know that you and your members will appropriately recognize the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of your club. Please accept my sincere congratulations and best wishes for this occasion.

"Your club may well take pride in the projects and activities carried out over the years for the betterment of your community. The years ahead promise even greater opportunity for Kiwanis service. I am sure that the club will continue to render significant service, while at the same time providing an opportunity for an increasing number of dedicated men to become actively involved in community affairs.

"Again congratulations upon reaching this important milestone.

"Sincerely.
"Wes H. Bartlett, President"

President Nixon

Gives His Views

President Richard M. Nixon, himself a Kiwanian, gives his views on Kiwanis:

"The truest mark of responsible citizenship has always been the willingness to volunteer one's time and energy to building a better society. Few organizations have demonstrated so deep an awareness of social and civic pride and duty as Kiwanis International.

"Through your many constructive programs and activities, you have taken a determined stand to help both young and old to a new independence of spirit by providing them with the educational and recreational opportunities that foster human creativity. You have taken an active part in finding solutions to the complex and pressing problems that face our community, state, and nation. You set an inspiring example of the integrity, fellowship, and service that contribute to personal fulfillment and to the preservation and progress of true human liberty."

Sedalians Charter Members

There are two surviving local charter members of the Sedalia Kiwanis Club, Joseph Botz, Sr. and George Chambers. The only other charter member is David H. Powell of Kansas City. There were 60 charter members of the club, which was organized 50 years ago.

Botz. 79. lives with his wife. Henrietta, at 600½ South Grand. A printer all his life, Botz used to hand set type for his father on the old Sedalia Journal. a German language paper begun here in 1877.

"Then World War I came along and we had a pretty good excuse to get out: the subscription list was pretty low." Botz recalls.

After the Journal folded, Botz went into job printing with his father. He joined the Kiwanis Club the year it was chartered in 1922.

Recalling the club as being "pretty peppy." Botz was its second secretary. printing its weekly bulletin called "The Stroke." which capitalized on the growing interest in golf.

"I'll never forget the charter night dance in Liberty Park," Botz recalled Music was provided on the balcony of Convention Hall by a Kiwanis "clown band" from Jefferson City.

The next year Botz moved to Jefferson City to handle the firm's office there, which did job printing for the state.

Botz and his wife have three sons and three daughters, all of whom are married. One son was killed in World War II.

George Chambers lives at 912 South Harrison with his wife Verna.

Chambers, at a young-looking 84. still runs his watch repair shop in the Commerce Building. He believes he is the oldest watchmaker in the country still actively at work.

From 1935 to 1946 Chambers was an owner of Bichsel's Jewelry. His long experience in the business makes him a specialist today in old watches and antique clocks.

Chambers moved to Sedalia from Columbia in 1917. He was raised on a farm in Elston, Mo. He joined the Sedalia Kiwanis Club in 1922.

"I wanted to get into something of that type." Chambers recalled about joining Kiwanis. "We were always pretty active all the time. We did a lot of work, charity work and things like that."

The club met weekly at Hildebrandt's European Hotel and
